AUTOMOBILE LICENSES

Why an automobile license plate?

The average person will tell you that it is a medal whereby the state collects its tax on automobiles, a means by which the ownership may be established, and lastly, but not least, to aid authorities in tracing stolen cars and establishing the identity of cars used in crime.

Like the Biblical version of the man who hid his right under a bushel, many automobile owners play this same game with their license plates. The bushel having gone somewhat out of style they still manage to use bumpers, spare tires and other paraphernalia in hiding their license plates.

The law requires that the plate must be so placed both on the front and rear of automobiles that they can be seen. The only reason we can find that this law is not being enforced is that authorities are too busy with other matters.

Sunday we took a careful check of automobiles and the manner in which the plates were displayed. By actual count, one out of every five was so placed behind a bumper or in some other position that it was impossible to read the numbers.

One of the persons in the car, a person from out of town, suggested that in all probability the people had a good reason for hiding their license plates—we hardly think that it is the case however, for some of Richmond's leading citizens have hidden their license plates safely behind bumpers and spare tires so that it is necessary to be almost on top of the car before the number can be read.

As the numbers are placed they are a mockery—a mockery of law—self-respect and a confession on the part of the driver that he hides his license number for fear that something may happen to him and his car from which he can run if his number cannot be obtained.

FIRE HYDRANT ASKED

An application for the installation of a fire hydrant at Ventura and Garvin streets made to the city council last night was referred to the fire committee for one week. The petition asking for the fire hydrant was signed by residents of the district.

PAVING OF SAN PABLO AVENUE IN EL CERRITO IS TO START SOON

Avenue Will be Improved in This City Some Time This Year is Report

The paving of San Pablo Avenue to its full width through the city of El Cerrito of sixty feet will be under way within sixty days according to a decision reached yesterday morning between the Highway Commission and C. W. Zimmerman trustee and Ross Calfee, city engineer of El Cerrito. The portion to be paved extends from the Alameda County line to the Santa Fe railway.

The Highway commission has agreed to pave a five foot strip on each side of the present highway and resurface the present paving. Property owners along the avenue will be called upon to pay for approximately fifteen feet of paving.

According to Calfee the Highway commission has considered favorably the paying of approximately one third of the cost of the paving.

According to City manager J. A. McVittie the city of Richmond plans to pave the portion of the highway which runs through Richmond to its full width some time this year. At a recent conference between Richmond city officials and officers of the state highway department it was pointed out that the state highway department can in no way assist this city in the improvement of the pavement.

Although no advances have been made from San Pablo it is understood that the Highway commission is agreeable to paving San Pablo Avenue to a width of twenty-six feet through that city. This would leave twenty feet to be paved by property owners along the avenue.

City Asked for Additional Aid To Carquinez Dam

Promoters of the Carquinez Dam project more commonly known as the San Pablo Salt Water Barrier are attempting to raise funds to send J. L. Beard to Washington D. C. in the interest of the project. A letter asking the Richmond city council to contribute an additional 25 percent to the contribution already made was received by the council last night.

The letter points out that the advantages already gained and the work performed will suffer unless some representative is sent to Washington in the interest of the dam and it is suggested that Beard is the best fitted for this work.

The matter was referred to the finance committee of the council for one week.

JAZZ SCANDAL HITS SCHOOLS IN WASHINGTON

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The jazz age, as demonstrated in the capital's schools, has frightened educational authorities.

With rumors of wide-spread drinking and "petting parties" by high school boys and girls afloat in the city, acting Superintendent Stephen E. Kramer has called a meeting of high school principals to investigate at least one phase of the so-called jazzmania.

These disciplinaries will meet tomorrow and discuss the car-stealing "situation." This is the direct outcome of the arrest this week in a southern city of four boys who were motoring to Florida from here in a stolen car.

Another case of the last few days involved several lads, one of them a high school freshman, who confessed they were in the habit of "swiping" automobiles, taking a ride, and returning them.

Reports from the district supreme court show that during the past year from 200 to 500 boys were arrested for "joy-riding." Of the white boys involved, practically all were of school age.

These cases usually had to do (Continued on Page 8)

FIRE LOSS IS SMALL

The fire loss in Richmond during the month of January was only $172.50 according to a report filed with the city council last night by Fire Chief W. P. Cooper. Of this amount $50 was for the loss to buildings and $122.50 for loss to contents of buildings. Nine alarms were answered during the month in which 1500 feet of hose and 12 gallons of chemicals were used.

Permit for Bus Is Extended

The temporary permit which permits the Key System Transit company to operate a bus from Twenty-third street along Macdonald avenue to the Southern Pacific Ferry was extended last night by the city council up to and including June 30, 1926.

CAR CATCHES FIRE

A short circuit in the controller box caused a Key System street car at the corner of Fourth and Macdonald avenue yesterday morning to catch fire. The fire departments sent an apparatus but the blaze had been extinguished before they arrived.

To Rush Action On Widening of Street

J. Mantusi who appeared before the city council last night and asked that immediate action be taken by the city in the widening of Standard avenue was assured by the council that the matter would be brought to a definite conclusion within two weeks.

Mantusi stated that the proposal to widen the street with a necessary change in a building owned by him on the street prevented him from getting tenants for the building.

Extension Granted On Paving Contract

A request from the Northern Paving Company that a sixty day extension be granted that company to complete the paving of Macdonald Avenue from Twenty-third street to San Pablo Avenue was granted last night by the city council.

Dramatic Scenes in Senate As Publicity Amendment Comes To Vote

NIGHT SESSIONS ARE ON

Norris in Five Hour Plea For Amendment Allowing Publicity

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—And scenes of dramatic excitement in which Senator Couzens charged Senator Smoot with "double dealing and sharp practices," the Senate rejected the Norris amendment for publicity of income tax returns.

The vote was 49 to 32, 15 Republicans, 16 Democrats voted for the Norris publicity amendment, 14 Democrats voted with 35 Republicans against.

Following this vote the Senate continued in session to debate the Meckellar amendment, which provides for continuance of the present law, which opens the amount of taxes paid to publicity.

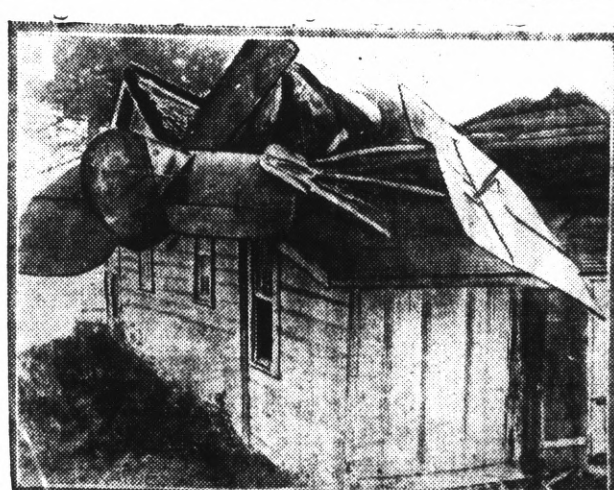

Breaking the filibuster that has been in progress a week against the $350,000,000 tax-slash bill, the administration leaders forced an agreement with the insurgents to vote tonight on the bitterly-contested repeal of the publicity section.

Night sessions here began under the lash of the administration whip Senator Smoot declared the bill must get "out of the trenches" in time to grant the tax-cuts to be earned incomes of 1925.

This is what happened when W. A. Geary and Benjamin Torrey unexpectedly "dropped in" on O. H. Hirsch at Warm Springs, near San Jose, Cal. Although the plane was badly damaged neither Geary nor his passenger was hurt and Hirsch helped them down from their perch.

Citizens Asked To Help Enforce Solicitors Law

Out of town charities who solicit in Richmond for clothing and other articles should be discouraged according to sentiment expressed at the city council last night by various members of that body.

Councilman Marie Ogborn brought the matter before the council asking that a special effort be made to enforce the ordinance which requires all solicitors in the city to have permits to be made.

"We have plenty of needy in Richmond and those articles of clothing which are being carted to other cities by the truck load might well remain here to take care of our needy," Mrs. Ogborn stated.

Mayor Scott called upon the citizens of Richmond to make use of the ordinance which requires all peddlers or solicitors to have a permit.

He pointed out that when a solicitor calls housewives, should ascertain whether or not the party has a permit and if no permit has been obtained the police department should be informed.

Mrs. Ogborn pointed out further that any person in the city who might have articles of clothing to be given to the needy could have them called for by calling him on the telephone or by calling Mrs. R. G. Lee, 31 Idaho street, Telephone R. 1276 who will see that the articles are turned over to the Social Service Bureau of the City.

HARBOR REPORT IS SUBMITTED

Seven ships touched at the Municipal wharf during the month of January and handled 13,619.40 tons of freight, according to a report submitted to the city council last night by Harbor Master Jackson H. Misner. The total earnings for the wharf during the month was $2,328.35.

Most of the tonnage which was handled was for far eastern and oriental ports.

Germany to Enter League Without Delay Is Report

(By Universal Service)
BERLIN, Feb. 8.—Smiling under what the German trust calls, "Mussolini's slap at Germany's face," chafing at their utter helplessness to retaliate, but realizing that Germany's only weapon is the mobilization of world opinion, the German cabinet decided after an all day session to apply at once for entrance into the League of Nations. The application for membership was sent off by special courier to Geneva tonight.

Tomorrow, at his own request, and that of most of the party, Foreign Minister Stresemann, will answer Premier Mussolini in a speech to the world from the forum of the Reichstag.

MITCHELL IN ATTACK ON THE SEC. OF WAR

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—A new sensation stirred the capital tonight as Col. Billy Mitchell, accused secretary of war Davis of double-dealing in instructing the war department today to investigate the alleged propaganda activities and agitation by army officers in behalf of a unified air service.

The flying Colonel, whose campaign for adequate air forces led to his court-martial and resignation from the army, declared that while the secretary of war was ordering this inquiry, he himself was issuing propaganda against aircraft legislation before Congress to which the war department is opposed.

Charleston Ban Becomes Law

The ordinance which prohibits the dancing of the Charleston in dance halls in the city of Richmond where a sign is posted, stating that the dance is not allowed, became a law last night when it came up for a final reading before the council.

Milk Truck Brings News to Front Door

Considerable damage was done to the front of the RECORD-HERALD building yesterday afternoon when a milk truck, driven by M. A. Silva of the Eagle Creamery, plunged across Macdonald avenue at Twenty-second street and plunged against the brick works of the building. The truck was coming down Macdonald avenue, heading west, when in some manner a nut dropped off of the wish-bone of the steering gear, making the car uncontrollable, on account of the speed it was going.

The front of the truck was badly damaged and several cases of empty milk bottles crashed to the street.

The front of the RECORD-HERALD building was marred and a pillar at the front door was moved several inches.

The street was cleaned of the broken glass and the car was towed to the Creamery garage.

Luckily the machine crashed into the pillar at the front of the building for a few feet further to one side would have sent it through the plate glass window.

Prohibition War In Congress to Shift To Committee Soon

TRACK WANTED TO SERVE THE INNER HARBOR

Southern Pacific Objects to The Granting of Exclusive Privilege

WANT CROSSING RIGHTS

Matter Referred to Council For One Week to Make Final Draft

After representatives of the Santa Fe Railway and the Southern Pacific Railway had appeared before the city council last night that body deferred action on a franchise to the Santa Fe for a right of way to Municipal Wharf No. 2 on the inner harbor for one week.

The franchise suggested by the Atchison Topeka and Santa Fe Railway would give the Santa Fe a fifty year franchise to construct a single track from the present Oakland-Richmond Line to the inner harbor wharf. The right of way would extend through private property of the Santa Fe railway company, down Atchison avenue and Herman avenue onto Eighth street and then down Eighth street to the new wharf. Condemnation suits for a portion of the right of way were filed some time ago by the railway company.

The proposed trackage would extend for a distance of 6,865 feet with the purpose of serving the inner harbor wharf.

Plat Kent, Attorney for the Santa Fe who appeared before the council stated that the money about $75,000 had been appropriated for the work and that the track could be completed within about twelve months.

This report was made to the city council last night by Mayor W. W. Scott who stated that he and McVittie had a conference with officials of the company last week. The question was brought up at the meeting of the city council last Monday night when the service in East Richmond, and the manner of switching cars was brought before the council.

Charles Evans Hughes and John W. Davis are among the notables more recently come to the succor of the federal judges seeking remuneration commensurate with their idea of their own worth and of the importance of their office.

In the opinion of both Hughes and Davis the federal jurists without exception are "miserably" paid. Elsewhere Mr. Hughes applies the adjective "disgraceful" to the subject. Both may talk freely upon this matter of public expense without fear of being misunderstood merely because of the coincidental fact that William Howard Taft was defeated for reelection to the presidency only to be made chief justice of the United States supreme court and that they too are disappointed candidates for the presidency.

In 1913 the chief justice of the United States supreme court received a salary of $13,000 and the associate justices $12,000. The following year increases of $2,000 and $2,500, respectively were granted. Circuit judges in 1913 were paid $7,000, which was increased to $8,500 in 1919. Salaries of district judges were similarly raised from $6,000 to $7,500.

Considered in their relation to living costs and the salary scale for county and city police courts they mean one of the three things; Federal judges were overpaid in 1913, or county and police court judges are now overpaid, or federal judges are now grossly underpaid.

Legislative activity in recent years has placed new and almost insupportable burdens on the federal judiciary, making the office less attractive to men of the required character and training. To keep qualified men on the federal bench and to replace them, at death or retirement, with men equally qualified, the remuneration must be made persuasively adequate. It is astute public policy to pay judges well, for poor pay means poor judges, and poor judges make a travesty of justice.

BEST DRESSED

Since American women became the best customers of Paris hat and gown designers the world of fashion has conceded them to be the best dressed women of all countries. This naturally pleased Miss and Mrs. America and of course made their husbands and fathers quite proud of their own folks.

One might have seen, however, that the men folks always felt a little hurt and neglected because no foreign fashion expert chanced to discover that Mr. America was the best dressed man. Of course the women dress better here than elsewhere, but do not the men cut a pretty figure as fashion plates also?

At last there has come forth a European authority on the sartorial art who is bold and honest enough to admit that Uncle Sam ranks foremost as a fastidious and immaculate costumer of the person.

And this most gratifying news was hardly cold before it was discovered that the proportion of men with straight creases in their trousers is appreciably greater than the proportion of women with straight seams in their hose.

Now that it is decided that this is the best dressed country in the world, irrespective of sex, the two sexes can probably come to some amicable agreement as to which is the best dressed sex.

If the weaker sex eventually gets the decision it will be because the contest is judged on the basis of

Some Pages from American History

The Story of William Penn

The Quakers were a new sect of people. They came over to the early American colonies in the seventeenth century. The colonists could not understand their ways and so thought them queer. So, since they found that they couldn't be happy among these people, the Quakers decided to have a colony of their own.

William Penn was a Quaker. Perhaps you have heard of him for he was the most famous of these people. While he still lived in England the king owed his father quite a sum of money. He thought that the easiest way to settle his debt would be to grant his creditors a piece of land in America. So, late in the century, he granted away 40,000 square miles of territory—a piece of land that lay between the domains of the Duke of York and Lord Baltimore. This land was about in the place that the State of Pennsylvania now has on our map.

Penn had thought of several possible names for his land, but the king insisted that it should be named after the owner. So it was called Pennsylvania—the last part of the name calling attention to the thick forest that covered the lands.

It was the son, William Penn, who came to America. He had held very definite religious views and had been expelled from college. His father had sent him to Paris for wider experience. After he came back to England, his father found that he still held strange theories. At one time he was charged with heresy and imprisoned in the Tower of London, where so many famous men have been imprisoned.

Finally young Penn came to America. He was allowed great freedom in the shaping of the policies of his colony. Perhaps that is why it outgrew so many of the other colonies.

When Penn came to take possession of his land, there was quite a ceremony. It impressed the Indians who were present. First a plot of ground was taken from the earth and handed to Penn. This meant that the land belonged to him. Then a drinking vessel was filled with water from the Delaware river and given him. This meant that the water also was his. Then he was tendered the key to the fort.

SYNOPSIS

Molly Shannon, of a poor cotton-picking family of northern Texas, won a scholarship at the State University and is now in her sophomore year. She is boarding at the home of Mrs. Parker, a kindly soul who is helping to make her life enjoyable. One day a well-dressed stranger calls who makes a peculiar impression on the girl. She thinks him a bill collector at first but he proves to be a prospective boarder. Molly's heart is set fluttering.

CHAPTER V—Continued

"Oh, by the way, you haven't told me your name. I dare say Mrs. Parker gave you mine . . . ?" Again that disturbing smile which seemed to say more than he had said. "Molly . . . ?" he echoed after her. "Molly Shannon—um-m, that's pretty Irish, isn't it?"

"The name is. I'm not—so very much."
"See . . . ?" He leaned forward, hands clasped along the table edge, the ingenious smile still in his eyes. "Now suppose you tell me all about yourself?"
Molly gasped and started to laugh—uncertainly. The situation was saved by Mrs. Parker, who bobbed into the room at that moment with a tray of piping-hot waffles. Her glance darted from Molly's carmine cheeks to the new boarder with the alert motion of a kindly, designing little woodpecker. If all women are matchmakers, Mrs. Parker was woman to the tips of her stubby, hard-working fingers. She was an ardent and incurable believer in matrimony. No sooner had she clapped eyes on Mr. Stephen Renfro and deduced by a substant that this is as it should be—invariably and beneficent. On the morning of the thirty-first day of August she came downstairs simultaneously with a loud, three-repeated ring at the door bell. Before she could reach the foot of the stairs Stephen Renfro, who was just entering the hall, had taken the yellow envelope from the boy and signed for it. He advanced toward Molly, his face a little graver than was his custom.

"I hope it's nothing serious," he said, as he put it into her hand. "For me . . . ?" Molly had never received a telegram in her life, and she turned it over several times dazedly before it occurred to her to open it. She was standing on the next step to the bottom, and Renfro's handsome, concerned face was almost on a level with hers. "Oh . . . ?" The morsel which seemed pressed from her by some force outside; she was not conscious of having uttered it.

"It's my father—he's dead. They want me to come . . . ?" She looked about with some vague idea that she must have her hat. The next moment Renfro had her by both elbows, was steering her toward the parlor. He was as usual, late to breakfast, and the others had come and gone. Molly, sitting bolt upright on the sofa where he had left her, heard him go quickly to the back of the house where Mrs. Parker was. She read the telegram again. It was from her Aunt Anna. Perhaps the family had gotten him, after all—some complication. Her mother needed her. She must go, of course, but there was not one word about money for her fare. Mrs. Parker let her have it. She could, she insisted stoutly, if not very convincingly, spare it just as well as not. Molly was to take her own time about paying it back. Molly knew that the next day was the first and the last. The tradesmen were already beating at the doors, but there was no choice. She must not fail her mother now; she had stayed away far too long as it was. Such were the miserable straits and straits to which poverty could reduce.

Molly had small tolerance for the mawkish affectation of blotting out a man's sins because he was dead, of pretending to be sorry when one was not sorry. Her father had been a lazy, self-indulgent visionary, and she despised him from the bottom of her heart. She despised him just as intensely now as she had two days ago or two years ago. She sat with dry eyes and tightly compressed lips while Elder Day read without comment the brief ceremony. It was his comfortable rule, where nothing good could be said of the deceased, to refrain from saying anything at all.

She despised her father still, and yet there was this thing—death. The new dignity and aloofness it imparted, the undeserved touch of sublimity to the meanest, the most ignoble . . .

"In my father's house are many mansions. . . . I go to prepare a place for you. . . . that where I am there ye may be also."
The familiar words fell with startling strangeness upon the hushed silence. Perhaps that was what did it—breathed majesty and splendor upon this most repulsive of human functions—the naked beauty of the words, the noble, onward speed of the rhythm.

"Let not your heart be troubled; neither let it be afraid."
There were words stretched forth like a hand of healing—an antidote for the wretchedness of living. Marvellous that mere combinations of syllables could speak straight to the soul like that, could soothe and comfort and make at peace.

"I am the resurrection and the life," (Elder Day droned in his monotonous singsong). "He that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die."
Molly realized of a sudden that tears were hot on her cheeks, and she dashed them away. They were not for her father, she clung stubbornly to that. They were a tribute to ultimate perfection in the symbol of language, to the mystic, incandescent point where words meet—and become—music . . .

CHAPTER VII

"Molly, has Cynthia told you about Jo?"
She turned from the sewing machine to find the brown eyes glanced a little doubtfully on her. She glanced at Cynthia, grown in two years amazingly pretty and, to her wistful half-envy, exquisitely plump, and saw that she was blushing and looking very self-conscious. "What about Jo?" she asked, still unsuspecting.

The girl threw up her pretty blond head. "Jo and me are going to get married, come October," she said. Words and gesture were not without a tinge of coyness, a refusal, no doubt, of honest Jo's refusal, the evening before to say that he had never really loved Molly at all.

Do What Doctors Do

Modern doctors are prescribing a new help to millions. It is one of the marvels of modern medicine and is doing what nothing else has done.

It is a gland secretion, derived from livers of the ox. It stimulates the liver, it multiplies the flow of bile. We have learned in late years that cathartics never do that.

This new flow of bile—a quart a day—floods the bowels, keeps them open. Thus it relieves constipation. It does this in a night. Bile is an antiseptic. It combats intestinal germs which feed poisons to the blood. This new supply corrects countless results of blood impurities.

Bile is a digestant. It ends the bowel indigestion due to lack of bile. To nine in ten people this new help means priceless benefits. This liver gland secretion is embodied in Dioxol tablets. Each tablet represents ten drops. Learn what it means to you.

ANNUAL SURVEY OF THE BUILDING INDUSTRY IN THIS COUNTRY FOR 1925

Although the building shortage in the United States has been largely overcome, there is no reason for a marked recession in building. The tremendous normal growth of the country alone calls for a yearly expenditure of close to five billions of dollars. Ordinarily depreciation can be figured at close to three-quarters of a billion dollars.

For 1926 another year of tremendous activity can be expected. Probably $5,500,000,000 will be spent for new construction, repairs and replacements. Indications are that the next year will see some $10,000,000,000 spent on buildings.

During 1925 the construction industry broke another record with a total volume of $5,792,000,000. For the third successive year, building in the United States exceeded five billion of dollars. Estimates prepared by the Copper and Brass Research Association show a total construction expenditure of over $17,000,000,000 for the three years ending December 31, 1925, as follows:

1924 ..... 5,341,000,000
1925 ..... 5,792,000,000
TOTAL ..... $17,056,000,000

The year 1925 almost equaled the record of 1923 when practically $6,000,000,000 was spent to catch up with the shortage which the war years brought.

Changes In Trend of Buildings.
Careful study of all available data and estimates by others set the normal growth of the country's building at $4,000,000,000. Of this amount two-and-a-half billions are for some 375,000 new housings to meet increasing population demand. The balance is for the construction that follows as a logical step in the growth of cities and communities, such as schools, churches, stores, hospitals, theatres, etc.

The curves on the accompanying chart show the trend of construction for the past fifteen years and give some index of future. As the shortage (Curve No. 4) is not entirely over come and the normal growth (Curve No. 2) shows no indication of receding from the present high figures it is apparent that our annual building program for some years to come will approximate $5,000,000,000.

Yearly Building Requirement.
The actual annual requirement for the country, at its present state of prosperity, can be figured approximately as follows:

375,000 housings at $400, $25 billions.
Other construction, $1.9 billions.
Depreciation, repairs, replacements, etc. $ billions; total $5.2 billions.

Once the shortage is overcome this will be almost identical with the normal growth. As the value of the dollar fluctuates, definite figures cannot be established for this requirement. It is evident that, at present values, we will have to do some five billions of construction yearly to keep up.

Classification of Buildings.

An interesting part of the 1925 construction analysis is the variations shown in the reports of different authorities, who gather their data from different sources. In residential construction this variation is greatest. One authority, estimating probable 1926 construction by classes, places this as low as 33 per cent. Another estimate requires residential construction for 1926 at 83 per cent. Similar variations give the following distribution of the 1925 construction volume, and the estimate 1926 building program.

Construction Classification.
Apartments, 11.6 per cent; Amount 1925, $816,000,000; Amount 1926, $800,000,000; Increase 13.7 per cent; Amount 1925, $794,000,000; Amount 1926, $753,500,000; Decrease 5.2 per cent; Amount 1925, $1,680,000,000; Amount 1926, $1,600,000,000; Farms 1.5 per cent; Amount 1925, $7,000,000; Amount 1926, $82,500,000; Hospitals, 2.9 per cent; Amount 1925, $18,000,000; Amount 1926, $15,500,000; Hotels, 8.2 per cent; Amount 1925, $49,500,000; Amount 1926, $47,500,000; Industrial 8.9 per cent; Amount 1925, $515,000,000; Amount 1926, $489,500,000; Public 2.2 per cent; Amount 1925, $127,500,000; Amount 1926, $121,000,000; Recreation 5.9 per cent; Amount 1925, $342,000,000; Amount 1926, $321,500,000; Religious 3.7 per cent; Amount 1925, $214,000,000; Amount 1926, $203,500,000; Schools 9.2 per cent; Amount 1925, $532,500,000; Amount 1926, $506,000,000; Total per cent 100.0; Total Amount 1925, $5,792,000,000; Total Amount 1926, $5,592,000,000.

Geographical Distribution.
There is general agreement about the geographical distribution of construction. Slight changes have occurred in the percentages of the total construction in the United States.

These are shown in the following tabulation and on the accompanying map.

Region	1923	1924	1925
New Eng. States	7.0	7.3	0.3
N.E. & Northern	26.7	24.9	(-1.8)
Southern N.E.	1.0	1.1	(+0.1)
Eastern Penn.	1.2	1.6	(+0.4)
West. Penn.	1.4	1.5	(+0.1)
Ohio, Ky. West	1.1	1.2	(+0.1)
Ind. Ill. Iowa	2.1	2.3	(+0.2)
Miss. Kan.	0.7	0.6	(-0.1)
Okla. Wyo.	0.7	0.6	(-0.1)
Nevada, Utah, Colo., Ariz., New Mex.	1.6	1.7	(+0.2)
Tex.	3.0	3.4	(+0.4)
Pacific Coast	5.4	5.2	(-0.2)

It should be noted that even when these percentages show a decrease it does not mean that less building was done. In group 4, Southern States, for instance, in 1924, the volume of construction was $652,000,000. In 1925 the amount was $672,000,000, an actual increase of 3.1 percent shown.

CONCLUSION.
The construction industry seems to be organized now on a firm basis both as to financing and distribution. There are, of course, centres where there is considerable overbuilding and a certain amount of speculation, but in the main, the great volume for 1925 is an index of strong position and healthy growth. All present indications are for a year of great prosperity in 1926.

FIRE HYDRANT REFUSED.

The fire committee of the city council last night recommended at a meeting of the city council that the request for a fire hydrant at Fifty-first street and Carle's street be refused. The committee reported that the number of hydrants in the section seemed adequate. The application for the hydrant was refused by the council.

Burglars Take Jewelry Which Is Worth $6,000

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 8.—The blinding glare of a flashlight awakened Mrs. Redman D. Stephens, prominent society woman and wife of a wealthy retired attorney, early today and she found herself confronted with a young burglar, who with his threat of death, caused her to keep quiet while his companion in crime gathered $6,000 in jewels and cash. The intruders were in the house for about an hour. All the time, keeping up a running fire of small talk in low tones, and from time to time threatening her if she made an outcry.

The second burglar entered Stephens' safe and took a wallet containing more than $300.

Ely's Cream Balm is just what sufferers from head colds and catarrh need. It's a delight.

Garden of Eden Serpent Agitates Holland Churches

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Feb. 8.—Did the Serpent in the Garden of Eden really speak to Eve? This question is the pivot of a discussion that is agitating Holland, not only in the big cities, but in the smallest communities.—among the large-trousers-wearing folk of Marken, the cheesemakers of Edam and Alkmaar, the picturesque beauties of Zeeland.

This agitation, which is something of a repetition of the Scopes controversy in the United States—a conflict between Modernism and Fundamentalism—is expected to come to a climax within a few weeks when the Synod, the highest tribunal of the Dutch Reformed church, makes a decision in the controversy.

The storm center of the controversy is one of the Calvinistic clergymen of Amsterdam, the Rev. J. G. Geelkerken. It all started months ago when, in the course of a sermon he questioned whether the Serpent spoke to Eve in a human language.

Declined to Explain

One of his congregation indignantly interpreted Dr. Geelkerken's remarks as heretical and lodged a complaint against him before the convocation of the Amsterdam district, which summoned the accused clergyman to appear before it. Twice he was called to explain his views but he declined to appear.

Then the judges submitted written questions to him, asking whether he accepted wholly and unconditionally the Paradise version in Genesis. To these questions Dr. Geelkerken would not answer an unqualified "Yes."

His Explanation

"I am a good member of the Reformed church," explains Dr. Geelkerken. "I avow the Bible is God's Word and I fully recognize the authority of Holy Writ. I do not wish to explain 'rationally' the miracles in the Bible. I accept all the miracles God performed."

"If God had stated himself that the Serpent had spoken in the sense in which this is commonly understood, it would be irrevocable to me. But this is not the case and we know nothing about the meaning of the author. To popular imagination the Serpent was a kind of snake or adder; others imagine something more monstrous and think of a sort of box constrictor. This traditional explanation is not found in the Bible itself has got to be accepted as the only possible exegesis, according to my opponents."

Cincinnati Plans A Bandit Parade

(By Universal Service)
CINCINNATI, Feb. 8.—A bandit parade. That's Cincinnati's plan to prevent crime. All bandits, hold-up men, thugs and robbers of other daring types are to be formed into a column and, headed by a band of music, marched through the principal streets of the city.

The parades will carry tanners' "banditry doesn't pay."

To which one city father suggests the addition of the line: "If you get caught."

Action On Milk Injunction Is Delayed for Week

Action on the injunction preventing the Eagle Creamery from delivering milk on Purdy Creamery routes, was delayed for one week by Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie, at Martinez yesterday morning.

A temporary injunction has been granted by Superior Judge H. V. Alvarado on the claim that they had purchased the routes from the Purdy Creamery, now in the hands of a receiver.

Milk was delivered twice in one day last week to the consumers on the Purdy routes, as each creamery claimed the right to deliver.

OCEAN VOYAGE FAILS TO END STILLMAN CASE

(By Universal Service)

THREE RIVERS, Quebec, Feb. 8.—Although James A. Stillman and his wife are reconciled, litigation in this famous case is not at an end. The superior court is scheduled to hear on Thursday next, the suit of Fred Bequais Indian guide, against Mrs. Stillman for money he alleges he spent in Mrs. Stillman's behalf during the divorce suit of her husband.

Bequais, who claims $7,000 is due him, is quoted from Caughawaga, Quebec, as saying regarding the Stillman's reconciliation: "I had heard of no such change of heart on the part of either Mrs. Stillman or her husband."

He who can take advice is sometimes superior to him who can give it.

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Relieves Head-Colds at Once.

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed and you can't breathe freely because of a cold or catarrh, just get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head, soothing and healing the inflamed, swollen mucous membrane and you get instant relief. Ah! how good it feels. Your nostrils are open, your head is clear, no more hawking, snuffling, blowing, no more headache, dryness or struggling for breath. Ely's Cream Balm is just what sufferers from head colds and catarrh need. It's a delight.

HELEN WILLS ON WAY TO THE TENNIS FINALS

(By Universal Service)

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH
CANNES, FRANCE, Feb. 8. — Helen Wills, today began what is expected to be a procession toward the final round of the Carlton Club tournament, when she easily defeated Miss Fisher of England in a first round match, 6-0, 6-0. Suzanne Lenglen, regarded as the other certain finalist, drew a bye and did not play today.

As the score indicates, the American had little better than a work-out in her match against Miss Fisher. The California girl was driving with her usual power and clicked off points as methodically as a machine.

Miss Wills is entered in the women's doubles with Miss Contaglavas but will not contend in the mixed doubles' division. Miss Lenglen is expected to withdraw from the doubles in order to save all her strength for the anticipated clash with Miss Wills in the singles final.

Although no just comparison of Miss Wills' and Miss Lenglen's singles ability could be drawn from their play in the mixed doubles yesterday, the French champion's brilliant performance which played the major part in the downfall of the American girl and her partner, has lifted the odds in her favor as high as 7-1. Tennis critics who watched the match yesterday all came to the conclusion that it will be suicide for the American player to use the lob against the hard-hitting Suzanne unless she develops much better control.

Trucks and patrol cars of the California State Automobile Association engaged on road sign work last year traveled a total distance of 57,224 miles.

GOLD PRELIMINARIES
DET. MO. Feb. 8. — In the first round of the Pacific Coast movie polo championship the V. D. Wick club completely overwhelmed the San Mateo Tigers here Sunday (see the V. D. ## R. U. H. S. FIVE TO MEET THE MISSION HIGH

The snappiest game of the season can be promised when the local high school cagers meet the Mission high school quintette at San Francisco on Friday night.

Thursday afternoon, the Mission 120's will journey to Richmond to meet the local 120's here.

Both games are promised to be the best on the schedule this year.

Rowdy Dyer, the local flash, will probably be out of the line up with the sprained ankle that he received at the California Freshman game at Berkeley on Saturday night.

The road signs of Central and Northern California erected and maintained by the California State Automobile Association are admittedly the best in the world.

If we had no faults we should take less pleasure in remembering those of others.

State Athletic commission aired the charges today that a ring of gamblers had "fixed" the referee in a bout between Vic Foley and Young Parrel last month. George Wilson, who was quoted as making the charges, denied that he had made them.

American Sports Teach Near East Lessons In Fair Play And Justice

A Levantine Babe Ruth in Embryo

AGE old hatreds, religious bigotry, and racial intolerance have been knocked out of the Near East, where for centuries they have bred strife, bloodshed and misery. More than 150,000 children who have been admitted into Near East Relief orphanages in Greece, Palestine, Armenia and Syria during the past eight years have been taught American sports and American sportsmanship. These have been the primary courses in the lesson of Golden Rule conduct so essential to bring a new era of peace and good will to that part of the world.

"Naturally they had come to look upon life as something far different than a game and to regard their fellows as enemies or competitors for the little available food. To transform them back into human beings it was necessary first, to feed them then to teach them how to smile and play. Gradually they became children again, normal, healthy, fun loving. Instead of enemies they found their fellow creatures to be friends. They learned the games of childhood and now many of them, having been discharged from the orphanages on reaching the age limit, are now playing the game of life according to the rules of the best sportsmanship."

More than 20,000 war and famine orphans are still in Near East Relief care. As a means of providing for this work during the coming year, Golden Rule Sunday will be observed throughout the civilized world on December 6th.

got mine,
Boys!

YOU'LL say so when you discover what a perfect peach of a home-rolled cigarette P. A. makes. Pull up a chair and pull down your vest and get an earful of this sweet music about a better cigarette tobacco. We're talking about Prince Albert, you bet.

First off, P. A. rolls easier. It's crimp-cut and stays put. All of it goes into the papers . . . every fragrant, nut-brown grain . . . not into your lap or all over the floor. It burns better for the same reason. Doesn't go out as soon as you lay it down.

And you won't lay it down often when you discover that wonderful taste of real tobacco. Cool. Fragrant. Friendly. The Prince Albert process cuts out bite and parch pos-i-tive-ly. Get a tidy red tin or a toppy red bag today and you've got the best there is for cigarettes.

This goes for pipes too. If you've envied the fellows who have found pipe-contentment, just see what a wonderful difference P. A. makes in the bowl of a jimmy-pipe. Pipe or cigarette, your tobacco troubles are over when you sign up with Prince Albert.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins and toppy red bags. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

MAYOR WALKER SUFFERS FROM HEART ATTACK

(By Universal Service)
ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 8.—Just before leaving New York city today to come to this city, Mayor Walker, collapsed in his office. It was the second time within the last 48 hours that the mayor's heart had failed him. His first attack was on Saturday night after his return home from a banquet. During Sunday night he had three fainting spells, followed each time by palpitation of the heart.

Mayor Walker's condition was so serious today that his physician and brother, Dr. Wm. H. Walker, advised against his coming here to make his fight for the two hundred seventy-five billion bond in connection with a proposed new highway for New York City, but he insisted upon making the trip.

A powerful ally was added to the group today when Senator James A. Reed of Missouri served notice that he intends to battle for publicity to the end.

Norris held the floor for five hours and thirty-five minutes today in a scorching arraignment of the administration of tax cases by the Internal Revenue Bureau and ended a number of cases in which the interests of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon were involved to fortify his arguments for publicity.

Jazz Scandal Hits Schools In Washington

Alvin W. Miller, principal of Central high school, stated that he knows of no jazz parties that take place among the students and that not more than a few, if any, boys carry talks to classes, citizens in the neighborhood tell a different tale. This overriding is considered something of a problem, in spite of Superintendent Kramer's declaration that it is not a "jazz problem" as illustrated by the fact that there is a school rule against preventing students from using their own cars during recess or even from sitting in them at such times.

School authorities are wondering how now they can make students place their automobiles under the supervision of the school during class time.

They are tremendously concerned with stopping boys and girls from cutting classes to take a little jazz. Such a practice has been reported in more instances than one.

High school dances, at which the movement hinges on the inebriants consumed, are the subject of much capital gossip.

Superintendent Kramer, denying that the coming meeting of principals is anything more serious than a "show-down" on the prevalence of auto stealing, had this to say today:

"None of our students are who they had. They are only mischievous and must be taught that taking automobiles that do not belong to them is a crime. The four boys under custody will be given constructive punishment."

"The students, I think, do not believe auto borrowing any more than stealing an apple from an orchard in the country."

Track Wanted To Serve the Inner Harbor

franchise which granted the Santa Fe an exclusive right to the right of way was voiced by A. K. Frye, industrial agent for the Southern Pacific Company and A. L. Whitte, attorney for the Southern Pacific. Objection to this clause was made by the southern Pacific representatives who asked that a clause be inserted which would give the city of Richmond authority to grant a franchise to another railroad company at a later date, which would permit them crossing the proposed Santa Fe right of way.

Several proposed corrections were suggested but the council by a unanimous vote decided to lay the matter over for another week until a clause could be prepared by City Attorney A. J. Hall that would be agreeable to the attorneys of both roads.

Frye of the Southern Pacific pointed out that this clause was desired so that should an industry wish to locate on the inner harbor and wish to use Southern Pacific or other transportation that it would be possible to bring in the trackage.

The franchise as suggested by the Santa Fe would open the track from Wright street to the wharf to any other railroad company at a future date providing that Railroad company would be willing to pay its proportionate amount of the cost of laying this portion of the track.

WARD COMPANY UNDER FEDERAL INVESTIGATION

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—War on William B. Ward's two billion dollar corporation with a south which it is alleged controls the food supply of the nation, was begun by the federal government today. The department of justice filed an anti-trust suit in the Maryland district court at Baltimore to restrain formation of a huge baking combine through Ward food products corporation and to force prospective members of the combine to divest themselves of control of series of companies.

Mail Pilots Keep Warm In Spite Of Zero Weather

(By Universal Service)
CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—Pity the poor mail pilot. Nothing to pity about, Tom Brown, veteran in the air mail service declared.

"Subzero weather on earth doesn't mean a thing to us," said Mr. Brown, a night flier between Chicago and Omaha, across the prairie stretches with its white snow blanket.

"Why, we're warmer in these planes than we would be if we were driving an automobile on the ground. We don't catch much wind and we have a heating system superior to that of a limousine."

"A sleeve over the exhaust pipe open at the front and terminating on the floor of the cockpit supplies us with warm air. The breeze from the propeller enters this sleeve and the air is well heated as it skirts past the hot exhaust pipe."

"The temperature on the floor of the cockpit, say in zero weather, is about 50 degrees. A pyramid visor deflects the wind and unless it's foggy down blow and we have to look over the side in flying less than 500 feet we never get cold. Even then we have a silk mask that covers the face except the nostrils. But if we can fly high enough we don't have to worry about the cold, for our overalls are fur-lined and about as snug a thing as you can find."

Brown said the electrically heated clothing for pilots was discarded about two years ago because it was impracticable.

Waltz vs. Charleston

(By Universal Service)
CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—The waltz is coming back as a social and musical necessity, declared A. G. Gulbransen, piano manufacturer, in an address here.

"A standard ball room dance is a requirement place in social life," said Mr. Gulbransen. "A dance like the Charleston is an abnormality in a ball room. It is socially disorganizing for dance styles to change every season and it is especially erratic and unorthodox to dances to be so unorthodox that people can only dance with their accustomed partners."

"For nearly a hundred years the waltz was the recognized ball room dance of the world. Everyone knows how to dance waltz, everyone else. Innovations in the way of personal eccentricities in dancing the legs about or new styles of lascivious embracing of the kind that are tolerated now would have been as much out of place as personal idiosyncrasies in eating and drinking manners."

"Manners were manners in those days and they were the days that were richest in poetry, when social life was fullest and most colorful. In comparison with them our present social life has slumped into disorganization and barbarism."

"When the waltz comes back as it seems indicate that it soon will do, it may be somewhat different from the old-fashioned waltz, but it will be the same in its essentials. No other dance form has ever brought forth more beautiful music."

A. A. Hani presided at the meeting that young gentleman rode into the city one day on pleasure bent. The bride once was the friend of Stanley Joyce, who later became one of the many husbands of Reggy Hopkins, now the wife of a young count.

How One Woman Saved Three States for Union

Three states were won for the Union by a woman. This woman, one of the greatest figures of Pioneer America, is almost unknown to the present generation.

How many people know that the vast territory of Oregon, originally comprising what are now the states of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and part of Wyoming would have been British territory but for the work of Narcissa Whitman, the first white woman to enter Oregon? She and her husband, Dr. Marcus Whitman, were Presbyterian missionaries who went into Oregon in 1836 to save Indians and ended by saving the great Northwest for the United States.

The Hudsons Bay Company then ruled Oregon. It feared American immigration and had determined that Oregon should become part of the British Empire.

On the border, the night, the gaunt cattle of the missionaries were driven off by secret order of a company factor. Undaunted, the little band, including Marcus and Narcissa Whitman and Henry and Eliza Spaulding, announced its determination to proceed on foot. By chance Narcissa discovered the Company's treachery and caused the return of the horses and live stock.

Surmounting vast difficulties, enduring hardships of which the modern mind can barely conceive, the Whitmans established the little missionary post of Wai-Lat-Pu on the banks of the Columbia. They lived in a mud hovel and every waking hour they taught or doctored the hostile Indians, or struggled with the stubborn soil of the wilderness.

Narcissa Whitman was beautiful, gently bred, a superb musician with a glorious voice. Yet no more indomitable spirit ever pioneered for the United States. She had married, through disappointment, Dr. Marcus Whitman, a missionary, simple, uncouth—a man of power and two dominating ideas.

The lesser one was the saving of souls in Oregon. The flaming one was the winning of Narcissa's love which he had never had.

When they had been a year in the wilderness, a girl child was born to Narcissa and Marcus; a child so beautiful and bright that the Indians, in an awed devotion, adopted her into their tribe. Even Untimely, the unfriendly chief, loved this first white child of Oregon. He tried to take her from her mother. And Narcissa, by her golden song, softened the hearts of the savages; convinced them, however dim their understanding of it, of the sanctity of mother-love, and kept her child.

The child was drowned. Old Untimely, the Indian Chief, as distraught as the parents, brought up the little body from a snag in the river. Narcissa's great spirit was almost broken, but she fought on to convert the hostile Indians and to outwit the hostile Hudsons Bay Company. Oregon must be won for the United States.

It is with this background and these heroic figures that Honore' Willie Morrow, the famous novelist, has written "We Must March," the true story of the winning of Oregon—epic in its intensity and power.

As a last resort Narcissa spurred her husband on to make the awful winter trip across the country to Washington. He found the President and Congress apathetic. In despair he organized and led a great expedition back to Oregon. By this act Oregon was finally won for the United States. Narcissa greeted Marcus with a new light in her eyes. Love, long awaited, flooded her heart.

"We Must March" is indeed the great epic of one of the most stirring times of pioneer America. Its heroine, Narcissa Whitman, appears upon its vast canvas as one of the greatest women of all time.

SPEECH MADE BY MUSSOLINI TAKEN AS A WAR THREAT

London Believes Mussolini Was Talking to Gallery in Fiery Talk

(By Universal Service)
LONDON, Feb. 8.—Premier Mussolini's warlike thunder in the direction of Germany and Austria, with its implied threat to extend Italian frontiers, continues to reverberate through Europe today.

The surprise which the spectre of possible war evoked by one of the big four of the League of Nations, came as a rude shock in many quarters, where the belief prevails that the league was sitting firmly on the lid, and that anything even suggesting a breach of the peace was impossible without league consent.

While in London the view is being held that Mussolini was talking to the galleries for home effect, the mischief making possibilities of his threats and his tones are not underestimated.

Baron Von Neurath, German ambassador at Rome, one of Germany's ablest diplomats and who is on a particularly friendly footing with Mussolini, is understood to be exerting his utmost influence in Berlin and Rome to prevent the breach between Germany and Italy becoming wider.

The incident promises to make Germany's entry into the League of Nations dramatic.

A portion of the London press severely excoriates Mussolini's speech. While some regard Mussolini as a hall in the league's China shop. Other observers profess to see a line crystallizing within the league of the Nordic States of Europe on one side, with the Latins and little Entente on the other, and both an eyeing to get Prussia into their group.

Praise of the Mussolini speech by a portion of the Paris press is not shared in London. Paris papers think Mussolini's energetic tone was timely because "Europe, ever since the Locarno conference was being slowly rocked to sleep by the purring phraseology of the Pacific." They consider that the Italian threats are chiefly at the attempt of Germany and Austria to unite.

Film Stars Go Through Second Wedding Rites

(By Universal Service)
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8.—Alma Rubens and Ricardo Cortez, film stars, went through a second ceremony at Riverside today in order that there would be no doubt as to their marriage. Justice of Peace Dianfi, the same judge who married them January 29 officiated.

Due to a misunderstanding, there was a delay in entering the decree of divorce from Miss Rubens' former husband, so that it actually did not take effect until February 5.

LONDON TO TRY TO CUT TAXI RATES AT MEET

(By Universal Service)

HOWARD E. MORTON
LONDON, Feb. 8.—Will London get cheaper taxicab fares? This question which has agitated both the general public and the taxi men themselves for many months, is promised some answer before long. A conference of taxicab interests has been summoned for Tuesday by the Home Secretary, who will attempt to end the controversy by securing an agreed reduction of fares.

The taxicab interests are by no means agreed on what form any reduction should take. At least three different schedules have been proposed at various stages of the controversy. These will be the basis of discussion at the coming conference. They are:

Initial hiring, 18 cents and 6 cents for each third of a half mile the first mile. Waiting time, one dollar an hour.

Initial hiring, 12 cents and 6 cents for each quarter of a mile after the first half mile. Waiting time, 75 cents or one dollar an hour, both in each case, a reduction from 18 cents to 12 cents in the charge for extra passengers.

The present official taxicab fare is 25 cents a mile or ten minutes waiting time, and 6 cents for every quarter of a mile thereafter, or for each two and a half minutes waiting time.

An imposing array of taxicab interests will attend the conference, including representatives of the Motor Cab Trade Protection Society, The Federation of London Trading Cab Proprietors, the Motor Cab Owners' Drivers' Association, The London Cab Proprietors' Trading Association and the Transport and General Workers' Union.

Meanwhile, in the background of the controversy is an active movement for the admission of two-seater taxicabs at lower authorized fares than the present taxi scale.
